Student Outreach for College Enrollment

Looking for a proven way to help low-income, first-generation college-going students enroll in four-year colleges?

Looking for a program your mentors, advisors, and tutors can use to help their students through the college application process?

SOURCE is a research-based, hands-on, step-by-step program designed to help any mentor or advisor guide high school students through the college application process (including financial aid).

SOURCE provides:

- Step-by-step curriculum for advisors (mentors)
- Hands-on workbooks for students
- SAT prep workbooks for students with low SAT scores
- Personalized on-line reporting for advisors
- Regular progress reports for supervisors
- 24-hour on-line database support for advisors
- Training, recruitment, and management support for supervisors

SOURCE transforms energetic, community-oriented college and graduate students into trained one-on-one college advisors. The SOURCE program:

- Provides college counseling to underserved high school students.
- Increases 4-year college enrollment among low-income and first-generation college-going students.
- Provides hands-on career training to undergraduate and graduate students.
- Provides strong "resume boosters" and references to college and graduate students.
- Provides a stipend to college and graduate students (including work study students).
- Provides a concrete and cost-effective form of outreach for universities.

SOURCE provides work – and real life work experience – for university students.* SOURCE is a flexible, highly rewarding job. SOURCE costs approximately $900 per student served. The bulk of those costs are staff costs ($7500-$8000 per advisor over a 15 month period). SOURCE offers a variety of packages for universities, community-based organizations, outreach groups, and youth groups that want to offer SOURCE to their communities. See back for package details and prices.

* SOURCE hires university students to be advisors for a 15-month period. Each advisor works with 15 students. Pricing assumes a 15 student/15 month configuration. SOURCE can also be run in a modified form, with adults, with volunteers, or for shorter or longer time periods. Please contact us for more details on running a modified version of SOURCE.
